Registration: Inspiring Primary Learners: Honouring Differences and Creating Community Through Differentiating Instructional Practices

Kathleen Kryza has inspired educators internationally for over 21 years. Kathleen is expert at bridging the world between educational theory and practical application of best practices. Her workshops transform teachers. They see that they can make a difference for students through teaching practices that go beyond motivation – they inspire learners!

Three-day Workshop

Workshop Overview

Take the complexity out of differentiating and inspire your learners! In this three-day session, Kathleen offers a step-by-step plan for creating an inspiring classroom through differentiated instructional practices. Learn how to honour all learners, build community and design engaging and meaningful lessons that meet standards and benchmarks while keeping the learning in your classroom rigorous and relevant. Kathleen has a multitude of dynamic, practical strategies and lessons examples for differentiating in the primary grades and creating 21st century learners. Be prepared to learn deeply and HAVE FUN!

Workshop Objectives: Teachers will learn how to....

- Create a classroom environment (tone and setting) for differentiation
- Collect pertinent student data for differentiating by students' readiness, interest and learning profiles.
- Use two frameworks to help you embed best practices into your lesson (brain-based, multiple intelligences, choice theory, and more!)
- Foster student independence and self-accountability through apprenticeship instruction
- Design engaging and meaningful lessons based clear and rigorous learning targets
- Create flexible groupings based on student profiles: learning / expression styles, readiness, interests, varied independence.
- Develop formative and summative assessments for the differentiated classroom.
